Take the NME Awards home with this special HMV offer

Like someone sneezing in a lift after a turkey twizzler supper, the tension's mounting in the NME office as the Shockwaves NME Awards gets closer. We're desperate to know who you've voted for. Is the Muse album better than Arctic Monkeys'? Do The Killers kick Kasabian's arse? Was The Feeling's record the greatest musical abomination to desecrate our beloved 2006, or was it pipped to the post of unadulterated dross by Robbie's 'Rudebox'?

Trouble is, unless you've got them all, how can you tell? Well, never fear, because HMV are offering money off* selected albums from ALL the nominated artists to help you complete your collection of the best music of 2006! And while you're there nabbing yourself the goodies, you might even bump into the bands in question, since the Shockwaves NME Awards Tours bands such as CSS and The Automatic will be appearing in HMV stores across the country. Plus, you might even find yourself attending the Awards, to play along in person if you pick up one of the leaflets instore to vote and get the chance to win tickets to rock's most glittering occasion, complete with a night's hotel accommodation. In fact, pretty much the only thing you won't get the chance to do is win an award yourself.

Store blimey! The View may have already graced your HMV
